Antibiotic-sensitive animals were used to evaluate the effect of ceftiofur-sensitive Streptococcus equi subsp. equi (S. equi) on reproduction in heifers. Forty-two Danish Holstein heifers were divided into three groups. Each group of 14 heifers was divided into two equal subgroups, and in each subgroup there were seven untreated controls and seven treated heifers. One subgroup of the controls was challenged twice intramuscularly with 10(6) colony-forming units (CFU)/ml of the wild-type strain in a single peri-articular injection, whereas the other subgroup was given saline solution. The treated groups were given a single intramuscular injection of 1.5 ml of ceftiofur (500 mg/ml) (group I), 1.5 ml of ceftiofur solution and 1.5 ml of sodium bicarbonate solution (group II), f678ea9f9e
